To whom it may concern:

I have worked with Doug Keene of Keene Trial Consulting over the last 14 years. Among the cases he has consulted on were large multi-district panel litigation relating to international disputes. Together we have done focus groups, mock trials, and witness preparation.

Doug has impressed me and distinguished himself on the quality of his advice. It is always honest and on point. He may not always tell me or my client what we want to hear, but he always tells us what we need to hear to make rational decisions.

Over the years I have found that there are many jury consultants with a variety of credentials that are preaching new religion. Doug is innovative but always mindful of the traditional science of jury persuasion including identifying biases, beliefs, and motivations.

I recommend you consider including Doug Keene as member of your trial team.

Sincerely,

Thad T. Dameris
